When a Man Should Lie.
"Harold," murmured the beautiful maid shyly, "am I the only girl you ever told you loved?"
"I will tell you the truth, dearest," answered the manly youth, leaning forward over her. "You are not."
"I think you might have lied a little, Harold—for me," she said, turning tearfully away.—Stray Stories.

The I. U. club, a newly formed organization among several of the younger people of the city, is to hold its second social gathering in the Gordon hall from 8 o'clock until 2 o'clock next Friday evening, Dec. 31. The committee has arranged for plenty of fun and amusement, including dancing, as well as for some real appetizing refreshments. All members of the club are cordially invited to be on hand to dance the old year out and the new year in.

The first regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Barre post No. 10, American Legion, will be held in the Legion hall Tuesday evening at 7:30. Officers for the auxiliary will be elected at this time to serve the ensuing year, and the delegates to the first state convention, which will be held in Burlington Jan. 14, will likewise be chosen at this time. All mothers, wives and sisters of ex-service men are invited to this meeting, and especially those who signed the petition for the charter.

At 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, the day before Christmas, N. D. Phelps of the N. D. Phelps Co. was called from his private office in answer to the insistent demands of all his employees, who awaited him in the main office. Robert Inglis of his longest term of service in the Phelps working force, speaking in behalf of his brother and sister employees, presented Mr. Phelps a Commandery gold watch chain, and gold chain. Mr. Phelps was so completely overcome with surprise that it took him some time to reply, which he did most fittingly.

We wish to thank everyone who helped make Christmas a joyous and happy time for the little ones, some of whom never knew what it was to have presents and a Christmas dinner. We especially thank the churches and the children of the North Calais school. We are glad to have anyone who is interested in these children visit them at any time. We thank you all again.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thresher,
Mr. and Mrs. Orville Walbridge.

MONTPELIER

Snow Storm and Poor Connections Handicapped the C. V. Trains.

In addition to the snow storm of Monday, the trains between here and Boston had other troubles, so they were rather late. Reports from persons coming on the afternoon trains were to the effect that the fall of snow was greater south of here. The New England States Limited was nearly four hours late reaching Montpelier. But little of this was due to the Central Vermont railway, however. The most of it was due to lateness of the train on the Boston and Maine railway.

The train was from a little before 11 o'clock in the morning until after 5 o'clock in the afternoon running from Manchester, N. H., to White River Junction. A little of this lateness was due to the pulling of a draw bar on the mail car south of Enfield, N. H. The car had to be pulled to Enfield and set off, after which the train was brought along. The mail car was later attached to the rear end of the evening mail train. When the Limited got to Roxbury a little delay occurred because the southbound milk train was stalled and an extra engine had to be used to pull the train "into clear" in the yard. The evening mail was about an hour and a half late. The southbound trains were but little late. On the Montpelier and Wells River railroad the westbound morning mail was about two hours late. This caused the eastbound afternoon mail to be an hour late while the westbound afternoon mail arrived about an hour late. The most of this trouble was due to connections at Wells River.

The trolley service between Montpelier and Barre has been so impaired this winter that the clerical force of the State House, who reside in Barre, are trying to devise some method by which they can get to this city in time to go to work regularly, as well as something by which they can get back home in the afternoon instead of the evening. Some of the clerks have kept a record and it is surprising to see how few times the cars have been on time when they wanted to get either to or from their work. Some of them have given up trying to come to Montpelier in the morning on the trolleys and if the Central Vermont is late in the afternoon, which is seldom, they are able to get back home in time for supper. The old suburban service would be greatly appreciated, they say.

G. F. Lackey, deputy United States marshal, left this morning for St. Albans to arrest Douglas Dean of Alburgh, the man of whom considerable mention was made in the recent federal court during the trials of George Mott, Jr., and Prairie. Dean is the man who it was claimed by Mott got him drunk and that he was with Mott when Mott's car, with 194 quarts of booze in it, was seized on the Sandbar bridge. Dean has come back and Fred Webster, his attorney, yesterday telephoned that he would be at St. Albans to-day to meet Mr. Lackey. Deputy Lackey also arrested Theodore Richards of Alburgh, who was taken in custody Saturday for having two gallons of liquor in his possession.

Clarence J. Lavanway of Waitsfield died in the hospital in Montpelier on Monday forenoon, following a week's treatment there. The body was taken to Fayston, where the funeral will take place Wednesday from the home of Arthur Livingston. Burial will be in the Waitsfield common cemetery.

The deceased had lived in Waitsfield and Fayston for a few years, having come here from New York. He was employed as a farm hand. He was about 50 years old. Mrs. Lavanway died five years ago. The surviving children are William E. Lavanway of Plainfield, C. A., Harold and Albert of Waitsfield, Mrs. Emma Shepard, Mrs. Margaret Livingston and Miss Rachel Lavanway.

The policemen and firemen of the Montpelier city government were remembered Saturday by their friends with gifts for the most part, although one of the merchants deviated from the usual routine of gifts and presented each of the policemen a box, in which were different articles. The name of the policeman, to whom it was assigned, appeared on top of the box so that no mistake in the identity of the parcel should take place. Boxes of candy and the good wishes of patrons of the telephone office reached the "hello" girls Friday, Saturday and Sunday and probably others will appear at New Year's time.

The funeral of Mrs. Betsey Ann Clark, who died last Friday, occurred from her late home on lower State street at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.
